THE Capital and Valuable Collection of Pictures which is here presented to the Public, is the fruit of a considerable residence, and the laborious research of a person who had the means of access to the very finest remaining collections in France; and whose judgment enabled him, in a singular degree, to avail himself of those means of acquiring whatever was eminently fine and valuable in the Arts.

The convulsions with which that country had been distracted, presented a scene that too well seconded his endeavours to attain his object.—What a confusion of persons, and of property!—Possessors, missing, or proscribed, and their cabinets dispersed, like the leaves of the Sybil, in every quarter! England has had, perhaps, the greatest share in gathering up these scattered Treasures, and by affording a Sanctuary to the Fine Arts, has constituted within herself an Emporium of Wealth, incalculable. Some few in the unfortunate Country, whose enthusiasm for the virtù had armed them with greater fortitude, retained their treasures to the last. This was the moment in which the collector, who consigned these pictures, stepped in.—The pressure of calamity had prevailed—And what, but excess of this, could have wrested from them, such specimens as the Raphael, the Guercino, the Poussin, and many others, of the different great schools; or the Pordenone, which in variety of excellence is an Epitome of them all?

It

It is the collector of refined taste, and judgment only, who knows how to direct his researches, and in collecting what is fine, ever, at the same time, keeps in view the beautiful and the pleasing. The Present Collection justifies the Idea that in the selecting of it, neither the one, nor the other have been lost Sight of.—But this might be expected from the Collector's well-known Critical Knowledge, and Perfection in the Art. He has given ample proofs of these to the World—nor do we Conceive that it is the Present Age alone that will Stamp its admiring Testimony upon the recent Inimitable Productions of his Pencil.

It may undoubtedly be deemed one of the most capital, and superb collections (for its number) ever consigned to this country, or exhibited to the view of the Public. As the pictures are all of the very grandest, and finest class, and in the most pure, and spotless state of preservation, the Public, we doubt not, will know well how to appreciate their excellence. The patient Connoisseur may pass on from the turbid brook, but he will not be able to resist the gratification of slaking his thirst for the virtù, at the pure fountain. The taste of the most refined and fastidious collector may here be gratified without satiety, and he must possess the virtue, nil admirari, in an uncommon degree, who cannot be tempted by the exquisite rarities with which this capital collection is adorned.

- 65 Children with a bird's nest, a very exquisite little picture of this admired master; from the collection of the Duke de Praslin
- 66 One of the finest pictures of this great master, well known under the name of The Onion Cutter; from the collections of the Countess La Verrue and Grandpré
- 67 A landscape, with water and boats by William Vanderfelde, and figures by Adrian; a curious and very fine specimen of those three admired masters, and in perfect preservation; well known in the cabinet of the Duke D'Ozincourt and M. Gagny
- 68 A stable with cows, a milkmaid, boy, &c. a very capital picture of this admired master; from the collection of M. Le Rouge
- 69 A return from the chase; the animals and dead game in this admirable picture cannot be surpassed; and the whole forms, perhaps, the finest specimen of the master in England; formerly in the precious collection of the Countess La Verrue
- 70 Gamblers at Triestrac, an exquisite picture in perfect preservation, and no way inferior to the bonnet rouge of M. Calonne; formerly in the collection of M. Le Brun
- 71 A landscape with figures on horseback, a scene in the vicinity of Rome; clear, brilliant, in perfect preservation, and one of the finest productions of this very great master; from the collection of M. Grandpré
- 72 A concert with portraits of himself and family, exquisitely painted in his finest manner, and in perfect preservation
- 73 A dance of peasants, companion to the above, and of the same class of merit
- 74 A landscape, scarcely inferior to Claude Lorraine, and in the highest preservation; from the collection of M. Donjoux
- 75 A chymist in his Elaboratory; this picture may justly be called the finest known specimen of the wonderful union of freedom and finishing so justly admired in Teniers; from the collection of M. Le Brun

- 1629
230 BASSAN — — 76 THE MAGDALEN AT THE FEAST OF THE PHARISEE, wiping the feet of the Saviour with her hair; in perfect preservation, and one of the finest works existing of the master; from the collection of the Duke de Tallard
- 140 Vernet — — 77 A storm and shipwreck, the most capital and perfect picture of the master in England
- 125 Ditto — — 78 A view of the castle and bridge of St. Angelo in Rome, with a fête on the Tiber; among the great number of spectators are Vernet himself, his Wife and her Father, M. Parker; this picture is almost equally capital as the former, its companion
- 70 Salvator Rosa — — 79 A sublime landscape, in perfect preservation; from the collection of M. Le Rouge
- 170 Bronfino — — 80 The Madonna, Child and St. Catharine, a very capital picture of this great master, in high preservation; from the collection of the Baron D'Espagnac, where it was always esteemed to be from the hand of A. Carrache
- 170 Nicholo Poussin — — 81 A Holy Family, a capital and classic composition of this great master, in the highest preservation, well known by the print engraved by Poilly; from the choice collection of M. De La Regniere
- 220 Guido — — 82 Lucretia, one of the finest specimens of this great master, in his greatest style, and in perfect preservation; from the collection of M. Le Rouge
- 260 Nicholo Poussin — — 83 Christ in the Mount of Olives, the visionary part of this exquisite little picture is equal to any of the finest works of this great master; and the three Disciples sleeping on the foreground are very grand—it was brought from Italy by M. Joubert, and is now from the collection of M. Le Rouge
- 48 Guido — — 84 The patron saints of Bologna; in this style there is but one picture of this great master known in Europe, which can vie in excellence with this precious specimen, that of the Assumption of the Virgin at Bologna; this picture was long in the famous collection of M. Bramkamp in Holland—is now from that of M. Donjoux
- 3062

(12)

85 St. John with the Lamb; the sentiment of this admirable little picture is equal to the magic of its colouring and execution, and without prejudice to any other, it may fairly be pronounced the most lovely specimen of this admired master in England; it was one of the choicest ornaments of the very fine collection of the Duke de Praslin

560 PORDENONE

86 DÉJANIRA AND THE CENTAUR pursued by Hercules, a most capital picture, equal in colour to Titian, and in composition worthy of Annibal Carrache; in the best preservation, and from the collection of a late noble Duke, whose taste and judgment were well known

440 GUERCINO

87 ANGELICA AND MEDORA; figures the size of life; one of the most capital pictures known of this great master, and in the best preservation; formerly in the same collection as the above

900 BERGHEM

88 A LANDSCAPE WITH FIGURES AND CATTLE, one of the finest works extant of this great master, in which freedom and elegance of execution, and brilliancy of colouring are united, with wonderful grandeur of composition. The admirable picture, formerly in the Royal Collection, and now in the National Museum of France, is the only one known in Europe of this master, which can be held to be superior in any point to this; in dignity of composition it is however indisputably inferior; from the collection of M. Grandpré

850 RAPHAEL

89 THE VIRGIN, CHRIST, AND ST JOHN, known by the name of the Madona du Corset Rouge; an admirable picture of the middle period of this Greatest of Painters; the drawing and composition are worthy of him; the expressions of all the heads fine, but that of the Madona superlatively so, and the colouring is superior to almost any of his works.

This picture was brought from Rome by Cardinal Mazarin, and (notwithstanding very high prices were offered for it, particularly by the Prince of Condé), was religiously preserved in the family, until the distresses of the Revolution, in which

M. Primodan, the late possessor, had his full share, determined him to part with it for a very extravagant sum.

It was originally painted on wood, which beginning to decay, the painting was transferred upon cloth in 1767, by Hacquin, (as was also the Holy Family by the same master, well known in the Royal Collection). It is in perfect preservation.

90 The battle of Constantine and Maxentius

91 The triumph of Constantine. These admirable drawings are the originals from which the fine prints of Audran were engraved; no pictures of these subjects were ever painted by Le Brun; and the importance of these drawings is very much enhanced, by the circumstance of their being all that exists of these subjects by the hand of the Great Composer; they are from the cabinet of M. Le Brun, and until now have never been out of the family.
